I hope that I did not do any damage to the instrument. The hotel, albeit small and one horse in accommodation, was scrupulously clean, and Messrs. Kitchen s clerk was very civil. I shall remember the Witlmell House chiefly on account of two of the most zealous newspaper reporters that I ever encountered. They were both young men; and, Talleyrand s admonition against zeal to the contrary notwithstanding, these gentlemen should surely attain eminence in the peculiar branch of the profession of journalism which they have adopted. They sprang upon me from a dark corner in the sample room of the hotel late at night; and one after the other made me the captive of his bow and spear. That is to say, they interviewed me half out of my mind. They wanted to know not only where I had been, and whither I...
