Excerpt: . . . 3 the product of collaborative decisionmaking is to put a selective in-terpretation on the recommendations. To compound this problem under the proposed rule, the States Implementation Plan would be subject to EPA approval. It is ex-tremely unlikely that section 303 (d) of the Clean Water Act pro-vides the EPA with the authority to require each implementation plans. Although this may seem like a minor legal issue, in fact, it could potentially hold grave consequences for private landowners across the country. EPA has pro-posed to change the definition of a non-point source. This change will have the effect of subjecting private land activities, such as traditional agricultural and forestry activities, to Federal NPDES permits. It is my understanding that this change was never discussed during the FACA deliberations. In reading the proposed rule it doesnt require an economist to conclude that...
